The new 24,000 sf Tiverton Public Library includes a community meeting hall, café, children's library, teen room and exterior public courtyard spaces. The library is located within close proximity to the Town's middle school and high schools, and it is designed as the primary meeting place and neighborhood focal point for this growing community of 17,000 people. It is designed to meet the sustainability criteria for LEED for New Construction.

In addition to the building design, Union Studio was responsible for the development of the library's Furniture, Fixture and Equipment package. We worked with library consultant Kimberly Bolan to emphasize modularity and mobility when selecting the furniture. The pieces were designed so they can be easily moved and re-arranged in a variety of different ways for future use. Union Studio worked with furniture manufacturers on the custom design of select pieces, such as computer stations, service points, and new book displays.
